

Summer School on Intercultural Communication Course for university teachers from the University of Wuhan

July 19-August 1, 2015

Intercultural Center for Quality of Life

The course will take place at Marston Hill Mullsjö and the University of Jönköping, in cooperation between The Research Center for Intercultural Communication, University of Wuhan, China, Marston Hill Intercultural Center for Quality of Life, Mullsjö Sweden and Jönköping University, Sweden.

Professors and lecturers from the Universities of Gothenburg, Jönköping, Stockholm and Wuhan will lecture.

- The program contains lectures and seminars about:
- Intercultural communication
- Swedish political and administrative organization
- Swedish media organizations
- International education and media
- How intercultural communication is possible
- Conflict resolution
- Ethics and intercultural communication
- Intercultural information and communication technology and new media
- Patterns of communication in China
- How we should understand cultural differences
- Cultural universals and similarities
- Power and intercultural communication
- Swedish media

In addition, study visits are made to:

- Newspaper, radio and TV
- A local commune
- A selection of museums in Gothenburg

Marston Hill:

Marston Hill is beautifully situated on the slope of a hill with a view of the Mullsjö valley and lake Mullsjö. Marston Hill has been an intercultural center since 1924. During a long period, the main activity at Marston Hill consisted in educational programs teaching English language and Anglo-American culture. But there have also been other activities focusing on more spiritual matters, art, literature, music, social science, linguistics, communication and cognitive science. Scholars, researchers, writers and artists from many parts of the world, e.g. India, China, Africa and Europe have visited Marston Hill.